Forecast for Friday 30 Jul 2021

Weather: A dull start with cloud slow to lift off the hills through morning. It will become bright and perhaps sunny although with an increasing chance of a few showers developing into the afternoon and an isolated thunderstorm is possible across the Tayside hills. Thicker cloud and patchy rain will sink south through evening.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 40% quickly rising 80% through morning then down to 20% through evening.

Visibility: Extensive low cloud above 400-500m will gradually lift through morning to leave most cloud well above summits. Passing afternoon showers may limit visibility to neighbouring slopes. Cloud lowering 500m or lower from the north through evening.
